

When we go back, offices will have changed

New Office

New Zones

At JG, as manufacturers of office furniture, we have already considered this.

Solutions to leaving Covid 19 outside of the office environment

The impact of COVID-19 has without a doubt affected our daily life. This circumstance will transform our relationship with the spaces we share – and the office is one of these.

In spite of the fact that tele-working will consolidate itself as an additional tool to be taken into account, the office will remain active and workspaces will continue to be a key area for generating synergies, synchronizing teams and sharing knowledge. For this reason, it is important to prepare the office in order to return to the new normality –a normality where the health and well-being of people will be even more relevant than up till now.

To do this, new solutions, new protocols and new zoning will arise regarding prevention and access control so that the coronavirus does not enter the office. Not only will prevention be the key, but also offering reassurance and the perception of safety to all those who interact with our spaces.

Following, we at JG Open Systems propose some aspects and solutions to keep in mind for preparing offices in an organized way, based on WOM.
